Description of scientific activity	My research interests include conference interpreting, audio description and audiovisual translation. I used to work as an interpreter and translator for many years, and I now train conference interpreters. I am fascinated by the process of bilingual and multimodal processing in simultaneous interpreting. Together with my research team, we have created PINC, the Polish Interpreting Corpus, which helps us answer many questions regarding cognitive load in conference interpreting. I am also currently investigating the possibilities of assessing interpreting quality using automated methods and artificial intelligence.
