First and last name	Alfons Gregori
Academic title and position	Associate Professor
Faculty, Institute, Department/Unit	Faculty of Modern Languages and Literatures / Institute of Romance Languages and Literatures / Department of Hispanic Studies
Scientific discipline	Literary Studies
Research areas	Fantastic literature, theory of the fantastic, Catalan literature, contemporary Spanish literature, Spanish speculative fiction, dystopian fiction, translation of Polish literature into Spanish/Catalan, textual analysis of contemporary popular music, gender studies
Description of scientific activity	I have published numerous articles and book chapters on fantastic fiction and non-mimetic literature, as well as studies on gender, literary translation, and contemporary popular music. Most of these studies focus on the inscription of ideology in texts. In 2015, I published a monograph entitled La dimensión política de lo irreal. El componente ideológico en la narrativa fantástica española y catalana, which has been widely cited and reviewed. I am a member of CALITHI (Literature and Capitalism in Spanish-speaking Cultures) and a member of GEF (Group for Studies on the Fantastic) based at the Autonomous University of Barcelona. I am a member of the Otra Iberia group based at the University of Warsaw and the research group on irony in contemporary Catalan literature led by the University of Valencia. I have collaborated and continue to collaborate on various research projects in Spain.
