Description of scientific activity	My main research interests lie in discourse analysis, including offensive language, hate speech and linguistic aspects of radicalisation, as well as multilingualism and diversity in education. Alongside teaching, I actively contribute to international research projects. I am currently a researcher in the Horizon Europe project Fosterlang – Fostering Linguistic Capital: Strategies for Reversing the Diversity Crisis and Activating Societal Benefits in Europe. Recently, I have finalized a British Academy-funded project titled: Online Discourse On Ukrainians In The UK And Poland – A Comparative Study, which I co-lead with colleagues from Heriot Watt University in Edinburgh. From 2020 to 2023, I coordinated MaMLiSE (Majority and Minority Languages in School Environment: Helping Teachers, Pupils, and Parents; mamlise.amu.edu.pl), funded by Erasmus+. Earlier, I worked on the RADAR project (2014–2016), focusing on racism- and xenophobia-related hate speech. I have authored six books, over 60 articles and chapters, and co-edited eight volumes.
