First and last name	Beata Waligorska-Olejniczak
Academic title and position	Prof. dr hab. Professor
Faculty, Institute, Department/Unit	Faculty of Modern Languages and Literatures, Institute of East Slavic Philology, Department of Comparative Studies in Literature and Culture
Scientific discipline	Literary studies
Research areas	interdisciplinary research, intercultural, contemporary Russian cinema, contemporary Ukrainian cinema, Russian-language literature of the 19th-21st centuries, memory studies, post-Soviet émigré literature written in English
Description of scientific activity	I conduct interdisciplinary research on contemporary Russian cinema and, to a lesser extent, Ukrainian cinema, situating them in the context of literary texts and literary phenomena. I am interested in comparative studies, whose aim is not the experience and understanding of one culture, but rather the search for points of contact within the space of Slavonic literatures and cultures. I am a member of the European Society of Comparative Literature. I actively participate in international congresses and conferences, ensuring that my research reflects the latest trends in literary, film and cultural studies. I also serve as an editor-in-chief of the journal "Studia Rossica Posnaniensia" (Scopus).
